

About Us

Who we are

Established in 2003 the Planetary Movement is on a mission to inform governments, media and the public about crucial issues related to the expansion and healthy growth of democracy and freedom.

Planetary works globally. We incorporate the work of existing social and political institutions and integrate our strategies within the growing network of private citizens committed to public action to achieve progress.

We build upon the work of leading social scientists and politicians, in the belief that social scientists are challenged when confronted with realpolitik and politicians need the direction of the leading intellectual trends.

Today, there is a rising tide of concern for the state of democracy. Many citizens feel alienated and disenfranchised, while many more feel let down by their political leadership and the media elites who serve them. Planetary opens a crucial channel for dialogue between the people of the world and its governments.
